OIL REGION ALLIANCE TO HOLD CHOCOLATE MAKING WORKSHOP AT TARBELL HOUSE

Oil City, PA— A sweet way to celebrate Valentine’s Day is being offered by the Oil Region Alliance.

A chocolate making workshop will be held at the Tarbell House (324 E. Main St., Titusville) Sunday, February 6 from 2 to 4 p.m.

Workshop leader Sara Jones will teach attendees how to make three different types of chocolates, including chocolate covered strawberries, which participants can take home to enjoy or give as gifts.

Cost per person is $25 and seating is very limited.

Please contact Jessica Gorman at jgorman@oilregion.org or 814.677.3152 to register.

The Tarbell House, home to investigative journalism pioneer Ida Tarbell in the 1870s, was obtained and restored by the Oil Region Alliance and is now operated as a house museum and special event space.

The Oil Region Alliance oversees the Oil Region National Heritage Area, comprised of Titusville and Venango County, and congressional designated in 2004 because of the birth of the oil industry’s significance to U.S. history.
